UAE Student Among 2021 International Young Eco-Hero Award Winners

Local Student Receives Top Honor for Contributions to Solving Environmental Problems

San Francisco – Nileena Mariam Jonesh, an 8 year-old from Sharjah, UAE, is one of 25 young environmental activists from across the globe honored by Action For Nature (AFN) as a 2021 International Young Eco-Hero, an award that recognizes eco-conscious youth ages 8 to 16 who are taking crucial steps to solve tough environmental problems.

Winners of the International Young Eco-Hero Award are selected by a panel of independent judges, including experts in environmental science, biology, and education. Since 2003, Action For Nature has recognized more than 300 Eco-Heroes from over 30 countries and 25 U.S. states.

Nileena received a Notable Mention in the 8-14 year-old category for her project, Sustainable Streetlight System.

After noticing streetlights in her town were on during the day, Nileena set out to save electricity and create a more efficient lighting system. She invented a system that automatically shuts off streetlights when they are not needed, triggered by heat and movement.

“Kids like Nileena have shown that the next generation of leaders is here, and they are refusing to wait to solve the world’s most pressing environmental challenges,” said Beryl Kay, president of Action For Nature, an international non-profit organization that encourages young people to nurture a love and respect for the Earth and to take personal action to improve the environment. “The projects that these young people created will not only have real, positive impacts on their communities, they will also help solve global climate challenges and inspire others — no matter what age — to consider what they can do to help.”
